What Humanly Builds

Humanly builds an AI recruiting and hiring automation platform designed for high-volume, hourly, and frontline talent acquisition teams. According to the Humanly official website, its unified software suite spans five core modules: AI Recruiter, AI Interviewer (running structured candidate interviews over chat, voice, and video), AI Notetaker, Talent CRM, and an Applicant Tracking System (ATS).

Between May 2024 and October 2026, Humanly expanded that footprint through six acquisitions that connect pre-application sourcing with post-hire retention. After acquiring Teamable in May 2024 and three recruiting software companies—Sprockets, Qualifi, and HourWork—in 2025, Humanly added Anthill in April 2026 for frontline employee engagement and CareerArc in October 2026 for social recruitment marketing and career-site mapping.

Washington Footprint and Leadership

Humanly maintains its corporate address in downtown Bellevue at 10900 NE 8th St, Suite 200, Bellevue, WA 98004, though regional indices such as the Fall 2026 GeekWire 200 and earlier press coverage frequently group the company under Seattle or the Greater Seattle metro.

The company was co-founded in 2019 by CEO Prem Kumar, Andrew Gardner, and Bryan Leptich and participated in Y Combinator's Winter 2020 cohort. Kumar previously spent a decade at Microsoft integrating LinkedIn data and held product and design leadership roles at Seattle-based TINYpulse. Reported headcount spans 50–80 employees: April–October 2026 GeekWire articles cite roughly 50 core staff alongside absorbed acquisition teams, while the Fall 2026 GeekWire 200 lists 80 employees.

Products, Users, and Public Traction

Humanly targets high-volume and frontline employers across finance and insurance, franchises, healthcare, hospitality, manufacturing, real estate, restaurants and quick-service dining, retail, field services, and transportation and logistics. On the Humanly website, the company publishes customer case studies featuring HomeTeam Pest Defense, a 160+ location Domino's operator (Team Bailey), and DK Security.

Named customers and regional accounts across public materials also include Microsoft, Massage Envy, Worldwide Flight Services, MGM Resorts and Casinos, Rogers Communications, Dish Network, the Seattle Storm, and Moss Adams. On its homepage, Humanly states that more than 1,000 high-volume hiring teams use the platform, citing an 8x faster time-to-hire and a 4.8 out of 5 candidate experience score.

Funding, Stage, and Place in Washington's AI Landscape

Humanly has raised $52M–$55.6M in total funding across primary reporting and venture trackers. Milestones include a $4M seed round in late 2021, a $12M Series A in June 2023 led by Drive Capital, and a $25M Series B in April 2026 led by SEEK Investments. Broader backers include Y Combinator, Zeal Capital Partners, Female Founders Fund, Chingona Ventures, Hyde Park Venture Partners, and Converge.

Within Washington's HR and recruiting AI cluster, Humanly stands out for pairing venture capital with an active M&A roll-up strategy focused on frontline hiring rather than white-collar corporate recruiting alone. The company ranked on the Fall 2026 GeekWire 200 and was named a GeekWire Awards Workplace of the Year finalist in 2024, 2025, and 2026.
